RFD Announces Contest to Guess AirFest 2010 Show Dates & Headline Performer

Rockford, IL – The Chicago Rockford International Airport (RFD) announced today that for the next four days individuals will have a chance to win their choice of four (4) tickets to either the Captain's Club or the Family Flight Line Chalet or a $250 Travel Certificate to any of RFD's destinations by entering the AirFest 2010 Guess2Win Contest. Captain's Club and Family Flight Line Chalet tickets are good for the day of the winner's choice.

"The Guess2Win contest is a great opportunity for our AirFest followers to begin to get excited for this year's show. I have to tell you that the winner will have one of the best seats in the house as both the Captain's Club and the Family Flight Line Chalet are both right along the show line and offer their guests unobstructed views of what is in the air and on the ground along with catered food and drink. Winners will also be given the opportunity to be introduced to the headline performer for a photo opportunity," said Executive Director Bob O'Brien. "We will officially hear our dates at the International Council of Air Shows (ICAS) convention on Monday, December 7. My staff and I look forward with anticipation to having another world-class headliner for the fifth consecutive year," he continued.

To be eligible to win, contestants must correctly guess the AirFest 2010 show dates and the headline performer. Headline performer choices are the following: the Air Force's Thunderbirds, the Navy's Blue Angels, the Royal Air Force's (United Kingdom) Red Arrows or the Canadian Forces' Snowbirds. The show dates will be a Saturday and Sunday combination between Memorial Day and Labor Day 2010.

To enter, please go to www.FlyRFD.com. All entries for the AirFest 2010 Guess2Win Contest must be submitted by Monday, December 7 at 10 a.m.
